City Manager's Preliminary Budget Proposal Would Raise Tax Rate

by Diane Oberg

At its March 26 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council received a summary of the two-year budget proposed by City Manager James K. Giese for 1990/91 and 1991/92. The budget proposal calls for total expenditures of $10.4 million dollars and an eleven cent increase in the city's property tax rate. Council also directed City Solicitor Robert Manzi to prepare an appeal of the variance granted to the developers of the Sunrise property. The variance was recently upheld by the county Board of Appeals, but Manzi said that the city has reasonable grounds for a further appeal.

The full budget package is not yet complete, but Giese summarized the major changes. If council adopts the proposal, the tax rate will increase from $1.21 to $1.32 per $100 in assessed valuation. Giese said that increased debt service payments are responsible for 4.5 cents of the increase, while funding a 25-year retirement plan for city police officers accounts for an additional 4.5 cents. The remaining two cents are required for new budget items. Giese expects that a further 2-cent tax hike will be required for the next fiscal year to fund the indoor pool and improvements to Schrom Hills Park.

The new budget items in the 1990/91 budget include three additional police officers, a police information system manager, a new parks crewman and a part-time planner.

For the 1991/92 budget, two additional parks crewmen will be needed to maintain Schrom Hills Park. In addition, Giese would like to purchase a bulldozer to replace the 1948 model currently in use. He expects that more than one-half of the substantial increase to operate the indoor pool will be funded from pool fees.

Council unanimously approved, subject to conditions recommended by City Planning and Development Coordinator Celia Wilson. site and landscape plans for Greenbrook Manor. This is a development of 33 townhouses and 222 condominium units being built by Michael T. Rose on Hanover Parkway south of Hunting Ridge.

The development will feature two ponds with dam and waterfall. Exercise stations will be provided along the path around the ponds. Attorney Richard Reed says that the company has already obtained Corps of Engineers permits for construction of the ponds and mitigation procedures for the wetlands on the site.

Wilson said that she was proposing few design specific conditions and that she was generally satisfied with the design. Instead the conditions proposed are to make sure that the development is "built right" and that there is an appropriate sharing of maintenance responsibilities between the developer and the homeowners association. Reed said that the company accepted all the conditions recommended by Wilson.

Reed presented a slide show of plans for the development, in-

Man Arrested in Near-Fire At City Police Department

by Kelly Harmon

The new Greenbelt Police Facility at 550 Ridge Road was the scene of a near-fire on Monday, April 9 at about 8:30 p.m. A 25-year-old man gained access to the police department pumps and poured gasoline onto the rear parking lot. Quick action by Sgt. John Lann averted a potential tragedy.

Sean Matthew Clerkin, a Greenbelt resident drained 160 gallons from the 5,000-gallon gasoline tank using both nozzles "in a matter of a few minutes," according to police spokesman Pfc.

Lt. Terry McGrath discovered the flooded parking lot when he was leaving the building to go home Monday night. He smelled a strong odor of gasoline and saw it covering the parking lot. He immediately re-entered the building and notified the officer at the communications desk, who asked Sgt. John Lann to drive around to the rear lot and check the situation.

Lann and McGrath confronted Clerkin, who was still emptying the gasoline. Clerkin flicked a lighter once and Lann then drew his gun and told Clerkin that he would have to use the gun if Clerkin did not stop spilling the gas. Clerkin was instructed to lay down both lighter and nozzle, walk several feet away and lie face down on the ground. He complied, and Lann was able to cuff him. The whole situation took about 10 to 15 seconds, according to Lann.

City manager James K. Giese said he had not heard that an officer had used a gun, but said that the officers would have been in the right to use a gun in these circumstances.

"The gas was just flowing down the drain (in the parking lot)," said Lann, "like water does after a rain storm."

Sgt. Mike Willson of the Greenbelt Fire Department said that when the fire department arrived, not much gasoline could be seen, but there was a strong odor. He said, "Much of the gasoline had gone down the drain."

At this time it is uncertain how Clerkin gained access to the pumps. The Police Department gates are kept open, because keeping them closed would impede the work of officers who

Prominent Naturalists Lead Nature Walks on April 21

Prominent naturalists will lead two guided nature walks on Saturday, April 21 as part of Greenbelt's Earth Day celebration. At 9 a.m. Bob Caswell, who has been leading bird walks for the last 30 years with such groups as the Audubon Society, will lead an hour-long walk around Greenbelt. Bring binoculars. From 9:30 to 11, Dr. James Duke, author of several books, and whose work has been called "genius" by the Washington Post, will lead a walk to identify edible and medicinal plants in Greenbelt. At 11:15 a.m. there will be a walk for kids. All walks begin at the Youth Center and will be held rain or shine.

The Eleanor Roosevelt Wind Ensemble has been invited to perform at the Harrowgate International Music Festival in Harrowgate England. The Festival, sponsored by Concert World, is an annual event and includes a four-day home experience. In addition, the Wind Ensemble will visit London, attending performances of the London Philharmonic and the musical Starlight Express, as well as sightseeing activities. The group left for England Tuesday, April 10.

CELEBRATION PLANNED FOR EARTH DAY EVE

by Marsha Barrett

Twenty years ago, approximately 20 million people participated in a demonstration to protest man's excessive use of the earth's natural resources, pollution, overpopulation and other issues. Congress took the day off to attend teach-ins. New York closed Fifth Avenue and held an Earth Fair in Central Park. For the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, Greenbelt, an environmentally sensitive city, is holding an Earth Day Eve celebration on Saturday, April 21, from 9 to 4, at Roosevelt Center.

An Idea Sprouts

The idea for the event stemmed from a neighbor's suggestion to Greenbelt resident Tom Barlett. "We ought to plant a tree or something" and mushroomed into an all-day event with exhibits by local environmental groups, churches and schools, a tree planting ceremony with city and county officials, music, dancing, and other events, ending with a "Hands Around Greenbelt Lake" finale.

An organizer of the 1990 Greenbelt Area Earth Day, Tom approached local community groups to get their support. After contacting Goddard Space Flight Center, employees started a conservation club and in short order began recycling programs. Local Eleanor Roosevelt High School students started an ecology club. After receiving some samples and price information, some local churches began using recycled paper. "The most important thing we are trying to do in Greenbelt is to reach the average person to show them that they can make a difference."

Events Planned

The day's events scheduled to take place at the Youth Center, the Library, Roosevelt Center Mall, and Greenbelt Lake, include walks with birder Bob Caswell and with noted botanist Dr. James Duke, author of the CRC Handbook of Medicinal Herbs. In addition, Greenbelt's Recreation Department is holding poster and photo contests, along with showing nature videos. At the library, Prince Georges County and Environmental Protection Agency representatives will speak on how citizens can make a difference.

At Roosevelt Center local environmental groups, including the Sierra Club, the Committee to Save the Green Belt, the Greens, and others will set up tables and displays to voice their particular environmental concerns at the Earth Fair which will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Individual displays such as "The Miracle(?) of Styrofoam" will illustrate the difficulties with some plastic products. Goddard's astronomy club is bringing a telescope made from used parts. Local Girl Scouts will demonstrate alternatives to toxic household products. Participation is expected from senior citizens through pre-schoolers. In the event of rain the fair will be held in the Youth Center beginning at 11 a.m.

To liven the spirits, there will be Sufi dancing and folk dancing for all to participate in. Early arrivers may also enjoy a chance to experience T'ai Chi in a program called "Walking Softly on the Earth." There will be face painting and other activities for kids to do.

The city is donating a tree for a tree planting ceremony with city and county officials participating. The ceremony will be at 1:30 p.m. in front of the swimming pool. A variety of entertainers will perform during the day. As a finale, there will be a short parade where organizations and groups can walk as a group to the "Hands Around Greenbelt Lake" ceremony.

The Greenbelt Area Earth Day Eve celebration is affiliated with the National Earth Day 1990 organization. For more information call Tom Barlett at 345-0410.

Tent Caterpillars Are Not Gypsy Moths

Spring in Maryland usually is announced by the appearance of Eastern tent caterpillar nests in trees across the state; the tent caterpillar, a native of Maryland, is everywhere.

These caterpillar infestations are often mistakenly confused with gypsy moth infestation. However, gypsy moth caterpillars hatch two to three weeks later, do not produce silken tents in trees, and are more commonly found on oak trees than are Eastern tent caterpillars.

Full-grown caterpillars of the two species appear different. Tent caterpillars are 2½ inches long, with a solid white stripe along the back, and a row of pale blue oval spots on each side. The body is covered by long, fine, light brown hairs.

Gypsy moth caterpillars are about the same size, but are distinguished by five pairs of blue spots followed by six pairs of red spots on their back. No other caterpillar has these distinct markings.

Eastern tent caterpillar eggs usually start to hatch in early to mid-April. This year, because of the unusually warm weather, the eggs hatched early and young caterpillars are building silk tents where tree branches join together.

If caterpillars are abundant, they may eat all the leaves on a tree. While this may weaken the tree, it seldom kills it. Defoliated trees should be watered and fertilized, if possible. On small ornamental trees, physical removal of tents is a good control practice.

Because the tent caterpillar is a native American insect, outbreaks are usually controlled by naturally occurring parasites or predators. In contrast, the gypsy moth is an introduced insect with few natural predators.

For information on ways to control tent caterpillars or gypsy moths, call the county cooperative extension office or Dr. Robert Rabaglia, Forest Pest Management Section, Maryland Department of Agriculture (301) 841-5922.

Glendening for Fort Meade Land Joining Patuxent

Prince Georges County Executive Parris N. Glendening, along with Howard and Anne Arundel County Executives testified before the Maryland House of Delegates Committee on Environmental Matters in support of House-Joint Resolution 36. This resolution recommends that the U.S. Army transfer 9,000 acres of Fort Meade to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as an addition to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, instead of developing the land.

Fort Meade was included on a list issued by the Department of Defense (DOD) last year, recommending complete and partial closures of more than 60 military bases around the country. The land is located near the borders of northern Prince Georges County.

"This property contains the largest contiguous forest left in central Maryland," Glendening testified. He pointed out that the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, which is next door to Fort Meade, has conducted valuable research on wildlife habitat for 50 years and is the only research center of its kind in the country.

Senior Housing

On April 5 the News Review published an article covering the March 27 work session of the city council with the Housing Committee of the Greenbelt Consumer Co-op. I'd like to explain why I think it would be advantageous for residents, and for the city, to lease city land for a dollar a year to a nonprofit housing co-op for senior citizens.

George Warner (in his) book Greenbelt: The Cooperative Community, points out that Greenbelt's planners followed the ideas of English garden city planners: "A town planned for industry and healthful living; of a size that makes possible a full measure of social life; surrounded by a permanent belt of rural land; the whole land being kept in public ownership or held in trust for the new community."

The more of Greenbelt's land that we can acquire and keep in public ownership the better off we will be. We'll be better able to control our development, and the increase in land values will go to the city and can be used for city improvements.

The city now owns the 100-apartment Green Ridge House. This was made possible because of a federal subsidy which naves the difference between tenant rent (30% of their adjusted income) and fair market rent. People must be at least 62 years of age or handicapped to live here, and rents are adjusted annually after review of each tenant's income.

More senior housing is needed in Greenbelt, and it can be done cooperatively if a reasonable subsidy can be obtained. The Co-op's housing committee is seeking lease of enough city land for another 100-apartment building.

This will not cost the city taxpayers one penny and will make it possible to provide affordable housing in Greenbelt for retired citizens who would pay taxes on the building (but not the land) and income taxes—all of which would be additional income to the city.

The Housing Committee is proposing a Co-op which would be nonprofit for both its members and the Co-op. Departing members would receive only their original equity adjusted for any inflation or deflation. In case the housing co-op were ever dissolved, any remaining assets, after paying off all debts, would go to the City of Greenbelt. (This same provision exists for the present Co-op Supermarket and Service Station.)

Doesn't it seem like such a housing co-op would benefit everybody?

The Prevailing Winds Did Not Blow It...

by Sid Kastner

An unusual and delightful performance was given on Saturday evening, March 31, at the hall of the Mishkan Torah synagogue by a local musical group calling itself the Prevailing Winds. This woodwind ensemble, consisting of flute/piccolo (Nan Raphael), French horn (Beth Halloin), clarinet (Tom Puwalski), oboe (Kerry Willingham) and bassoon (Roy Carson), showed remarkable versatility in dealing with music ranging from classical through semi-popular to jazz. A near-capacity audience enjoyed the upbeat concert, which is one of a musical series presented by the Greenbelt Arts Center with the support of the city.

The group opened with a short piece of central European "klezmer" music, sprightly and ethnically appropriate for the setting. The Overture to Oberon by Von Weber is normally an orchestral work, as clarinetist Puwalski noted, but this as well as Haydn's Divertimento No. 1 and a three-movement selection from Peleas et Melisande by Faure were given serious and well-considered interpretations.

This musicianship made the following forays into musical humor more impressive by contrast, when Raphael performed her own arrangement of Clarinet Concerto by Christiansen, and Puwalski retaliated by performing his arrangement of of Clarinet Concerto by Kramar-Krommer; both showed fine mastery of their instruments, but the accompanying yoyo solo by Puwalski—he pulled it out of his pocket during an interlude in the music—was a classic piece of one-upmanship.

For jazz aficionados in the audience, arrangements of Duke Ellington (Memories of Duke) and Dave Brubeck (Blue Rondo a la Turk) were tastefully done. The combination of musical competence and light touch was further displayed in the sparkling Five Easy Pieces by Agay (not so easy), and culminated in the group's own plagiarized spoof, "Incidental Music to Last Tango in Arbutus." At all times the playing was "tight" and professional, despite many possibilities for laxness during the unique program. This attention to detail made the evening a pleasure for those present. Many commented that they hoped to hear (and see) more in the future.

Kids Helping Kids

by Mary Katherine Rutherford

The 3rd annual "Wheels for Life" Bike-a-thon is looking for children 6 years and older to ride for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and help reach Greenbelt's $5,000 goal for children afflicted with cancer. This year's Bike-a-thon will be held on Saturday, April 28 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Greenbelt Park.

Many incentive prizes to be awarded to top riders have been donated by the following sponsors:

College Park Bicycles, College Park Schwinn, Proteus Bicycle and Fitness Shop, and Taglio for Hair of College Park.

Lunch will be provided for all riders donated by McDonald's, Burger King, Safeway, Giant and Basics.

Approximately 50 children have already committed to ride in the Bike-a-thon on April 28. All groups and individuals are invited to participate.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is the world's leading institute for the study of childhood cancer and other catastrophic diseases striking children. The hospital is open to children meeting the medical requirements without regard to financial status. Over 80 percent of all monies received by St. Jude comes from public contributions. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, interracial, and not affiliated with any organized religion.

After learning that the 1989 Greenbelt Bike-a-thon raised $3,163, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld proudly stated, "It is impressive the way our community has pulled together to share time and resources to help children with cancer."

Anyone who would like to be a part of this campaign of "kids helping kids" can call Mary Katherine Rutherford at 441-8172 for details and sponsor forms.

The 3 top riders in last year's St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-thon Kristina Zugby, Michelle Kohler, and Maury Greene are congratulated by Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and sponsor Frank Vilarino of Proteus Bicycles.

GEAC Hears Proposed New Bus Route; Nature Creates a Lake in Schrom Park

by Pat Scully

At its April 5 meeting, the Greenbelt East Advisory Coalition (GEAC) heard Mary Anderson and Peter Donner, representatives of the county Department of Public Works and Transportation, present a revised proposal for an extension of Metrobus service through Greenbelt East. In addition, the possibility of preventing the proposed 7-Eleven at the corner of Hanover Parkway and Good Luck Road was raised and the "wetting" of Schrom Hills Lake was announced.

Route Revision

The original bus proposal was in response to a request from Hunting Ridge. It added a loop at the beginning of the R-15 route, down Hanover Parkway, across Greenbrook Drive and Ora Glen Drive and up Mandan Road to the current starting point at Mandan and Greenbelt Road. The route would then proceed on the current R-15 path, up Mandan, down Hanover Parkway and across Greenbelt Road to the center of town, before proceeding to the New Carrollton Metro station via the Beltway.

While the member boards GEAC had approved that route, there had been significant opposition from residents along Greenbrook Drive, the only road on the proposed route with houses facing the road. In addition, the route did not serve Hunting Ridge, which had requested bus service.

Route R-15

The proposal presented (and further modified) at the April 5 meeting involves changes in the routes, but not the level of service, to both the R-15 and the R-11 bus routes. (See maps.) As modified at the meeting, the R-15 route would begin at Greenbelt Road and Hanover Parkway. Buses will go up Hanover to Mandan, across Ora Glen to Hanover, down Hanover (past Hunting Ridge) to Princess Garden Parkway and then to the Metro station via Annapolis Road and 85th Avenue. This route provides service to the communities south of Greenbelt Road without using residential streets.

(The first revised proposal did not include service on Ora Glen and south of Greenbelt Road. However, since Windsor Green was particularly eager for bus service, and the only objection to the original proposal was to buses on Greenbrook, the proposal was modified to include the Ora Glen/Mandan segment.)

Route R-11

Currently, R-11 buses serve Beltway Plaza and the Springhill Lake area of town, enter the Beltway from Kenilworth Avenue and then proceed to New Carrollton Metro. In the revised route, instead of entering the Beltway, R-11 buses will enter the center of the city at Crescent Road from Kenilworth and serve the center city portion of the route previously served by the R-15.

Donner estimated that the new R-15 route would probably be slightly faster from beginning to Metro station. The R-11 route, which currently takes 18 or 19 minutes from Beltway Plaza to the Metro station, would probably take about 27 minutes. The additional length would not be felt by riders from the center of the city, whose ride would be about the same, but riders boarding at the beginning of the route.

Process and Timing

Since it will affect service throughout the city, Donner and Andersen will be presenting the new proposal to city council. If approved, the new routes would be implemented in September. Originally, a June date had been planned but the more extensive revisions, and the necessity for a freeze of routes before drivers do their semi-annual pick in June, will push back the start-up date.

GEAC voted to support the revised proposal, as modified. The GEAC board members will now go back to their individual boards to seek their approval.

7-Eleven Zoning

A possible means of opposing construction of a "deluxe" 7-Eleven on Good Luck Road at Hanover Parkway was presented by Gary Long, president of the Kingswood Civic Association. Kingswood, which is the community of almost 750 homes along Good Luck Road, is outside the city limits but directly affected by development in Greenbelt, particularly along Hanover Parkway.

Long informed GEAC that a public hearing will be held April 16, 7 p.m., at the County Administration Building in Upper Marlboro, on proposed amendments to the Sectional Map Amendment. At that meeting, Vogel, which is proposing to build the 7-Eleven, is seeking rezoning of the plot from its current C-1 status to CSC. Long asked for help in "getting bodies to the hearing" who would oppose the rezoning.

When the site plans for the 7-Eleven were presented to City Council and the Advisory Planning Board (APB), they were told that the existing zoning was suitable for this use and that the local community had been polled "several years ago." According to Long and Welton Belsches of Dresden Green Civil Association (the other non-Greenbelt community), no such poll of the community had been taken. In addition, Long cited the opinion of a past president of Kingswood that a convenience store might not be a permissible use under C-1 zoning. A canteen or deli serving another commercial space, such as a hospital or office building, would be permissible, but a convenience store relying on drive-up traffic might require CSC zoning in that interpretation. Long said he had gotten five different opinions from county officials on the zoning issue and the possibility of stopping construction of the 7-Eleven.

Jim Foy, Chair of GEAC, who also serves on APB, reiterated that APB had been told by the owner that the 7-Eleven was a permissible use under the existing zoning. He explained that under their operating rules, GEAC could take no position on the matter until it had been submitted to the various member boards. While some of the boards could take a telephone poll, others are legally required to make all decisions at meetings open to the members. Thus, no official GEAC position would be available before the April 16 hearing.

However, several individuals present expressed their willingness to appear at the hearing and oppose the rezoning. Phone numbers were exchanged with the visitors from the south and hopes for improved communications were expressed.

Lake Forms

Renee Gross of Greenbrook Village announced that, with no Corps permit or notification to the County, Schrom Hills Lake has formed itself. The water has been rising throughout the spring and is now encroaching on the mowed grassy verge behind the houses on Greenbrook Drive and Lake Drive. Ducks have found the lake and offer photo opportunities.

However, as Gross noted, the trees in the lake are not species adapted to standing in water, some are leaning already. The water could present flooding problems if the rains (and snow) continue and the water continues to rise.

Gross had called the county and the city about the lake. Assistant city manager Mike McLaughlin, who said he was unaware of the lake's forming until Gross called, visited it. The county official Gross spoke to said that there must be a clog somewhere. Stormwater management is the responsibility of the county.

Recycling Report

Charlene MacAdams, who serves on the city advisory committee on recycling, told GEAC about the progress the committee has made. The committee will soon be reporting to City Council its recommendation that the city undertake the recycling effort, rather than relying on the county. The committee was divided on the issue, with 7 members in favor of the city program and 4 in favor of the county.

However, the committee has received a letter from City Manager James Giese stating that in his budget he is proposing that the city go with the county program. The city program, as explained by MacAdams, would serve only those areas covered by the city trash program and not those areas served by private haulers. The county program will reach the entire city, it is believed. In addition, the county program will require less sorting of trash by residents than the city program, which would have involved a set of six stackable bins for the various types of recyclable materials.

GEAC requested that Foy send a letter to the city supporting the city's participation in the county recycling program.

Legislative Agenda

Addressing their 1990 legislative agenda, GEAC at its last meeting had agreed to send to its member boards for approval a motion to support an increase in police force resources and an additional police officer on patrol in Greenbelt East. With five of the six members approving, the motion was adopted as an official GEAC position which will be presented to the City Council.

The next item on the agenda to be sent to the member boards is the question of the surplus school properties on Mandan Road, one north and one south of Greenbelt Road. If adopted, GEAC will request that city council adopt as its official position that the city will claim the properties when they are declared surplus. Whether language frequently enter and leave the parking lot during shifts, according to Buerger. And the gas pumps, too, are unlocked. But the average person cannot gain access to the pumps, he said. A special secret procedure, which Buerger could not comment on, must be used in order to obtain gas from the pumps. Clerkin's access to the pumps is under investigation.

Clerkin, who was already wanted on an open warrant for failing to appear in court for a malicious destruction charge, was "seeking attention," according to Pfc. David Buerger. He was arrested and taken into custody by the Fire Marshall's Office and charged with attempted arson. Other charges against Clerkin are pending. Clerkin is being held in Upper Marlboro on $50,000 bail. The Fire Marshall's office will conduct the investigation.

Members of the Prince Georges County Fire Department's Hazardous Material Team and the Environmental Protection Agency responded to the parking lot due to the flammability and potential environmental and health hazard of a gasoline spill.

The spill was cleaned up by GSX Services of Laurel, which specializes in toxic spills. Workers labored through the night to contain the spill, and finished Tuesday afternoon.

According to Giese, GSX Services used an absorbent material which soaks up oil and gasoline to pick up the spill. On Tuesday, soils which had been contaminated had been removed from the area.

The gas spill cost the police department about $8,000, most of which went to GSX Services for containment and cleanup of the spill, according to Buerger. Giese stated that the city is filing an insurance claim that may take the brunt of the bill. Greenbelt's policy covers vandalism, but does not cover hazardous waste spills. There is also a possibility that Greenbelt may receive funds from the National Superfund for Environmental Clean-Up to help defray the costs.

According to Giese, the parking lot was due to get a new surface by the contractor who put it in, because the lot was originally not constructed as the contract stated. So despite the fact that gasoline has a tendency to dissolve the black-top surfaces, Giese said that the city could let the lot sit so damage could be assessed, fix the damaged areas with minimum expenditures and then have the surface repaved by the contractor.

Greenbelt Legion Auxiliary To Fete National President

Sandi Dutton, President American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Maryland is planning a weekend of events to familiarize their national president, Betty Calder with the state of Maryland. Dutton announced a banquet and dance in Calder's honor will be held at the American Legion post home in Greenbelt with auxiliary members from all over the state attending. Mrs. Dutton has also planned a tour of the Eastern Shore with a visit to the Charlotte Hall Veterans Home.

Calder's special project this year is the renovation and remodeling of the chapel at Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. She is also emphasizing volunteerism in Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation and Community Service stressing the homeless and neighborhood crime watch for the protection of senior citizens.

OUTSTANDING YOUTHS: HUNANIAN, PRITCHARD

by Jeff Keir

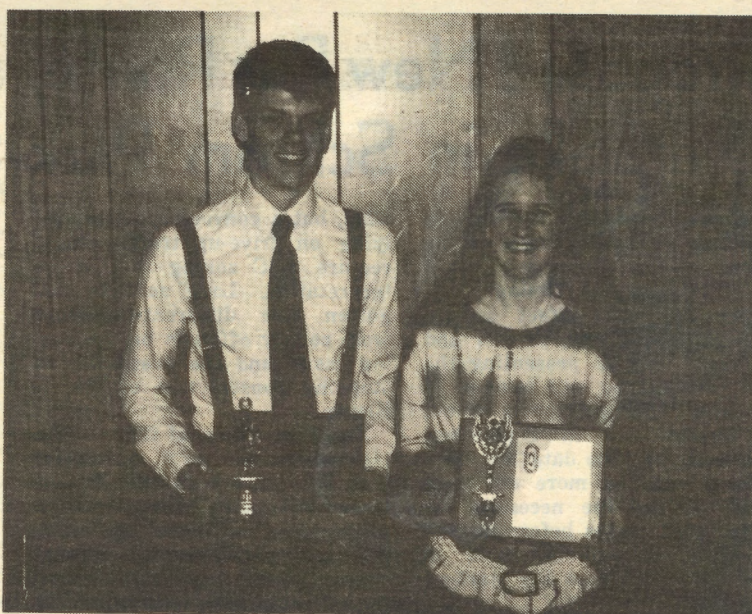

At a banquet on March 9, the Prince George's County Boys and Girls Club honored the "Boy of the Year" and the "Girl of the Year" from each of the local boys and girls clubs in the County. Honorees from the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club were Miriam Hunanian and Jack Pritchard. The honorees are selected based on their contribution to the club, not only athletically, but in terms of their cooperation, volunteerism and leadership qualities.

Miriam is a 15 year old freshman who attends Eleanor Roosevelt High School. She has been a member of the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club for six years. Her favorite sport is soccer, and she has played in every season that has offered a team in her age group. This past fall she made the JV team at Roosevelt, and was an assistant coach for the club's 12-year-old team. She has also participated in the Greenbelt Swim Team for four years. She plays flute in the Roosevelt Band and just recently was accepted into the State High School Band. She maintains a 3.5 grade point average. She is a role model for many children in Greenbelt with her quiet and even good temper, and her excellence in good sportsmanship and team play.

Jack, although a relative newcomer to Greenbelt (moving here from Hawaii a year ago), has made his presence known. He joined the 16-year-old and under soccer team immediately, and quickly became the heart and soul of the team. He was the oldest player and helped the younger players with individual skills, as well as teaching them the importance of team play. He has played soccer for 12 years. Jack also was an assistant coach for the 12-year-old soccer team this past fall (he is now an assistant coach for the Club's 13 & under County team). He exemplifies the fun of soccer, the hard work involved, and getting along with others. He is presently a senior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School where he plays varsity soccer and maintains a 3.8 grade point average. His favorite sports include soccer, swimming, baseball, basketball, cross-country and surfing. He is also a member of his club's youth group.

Training Sessions Offered On CPR Awareness Day

Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) training sessions will be held on April 21 at Eleanor Roosevelt High School beginning at 8 a.m. and will start every half hour thereafter until 1 p.m. in celebration of CPR Awareness.

CPR Awareness Day has become an annual event with the purpose of saving lives by educating the community in the skill of CPR. Based upon guidelines of the American Heart Association, citizens can learn this life saving technique in just three (3) hours. These activities are a public service of the Prince Georges County Fire Department, AMI Doctor's Hospital, and the Prince Georges County public schools.

CPR training is a requirement for all county employees and CPR training is included as part of the New Employee orientation Program. All students who are enrolled in the county school system and graduate after 1992 will be required to take a mandatory health issue course which includes CPR training as part of the curriculum. The Fire Department provides assistance with the coordination and instructor training for this program.

CPR training is offered at various locations throughout the County and any individual or groups of individuals desiring CPR training can make arrangements by calling the Fire Department CPR Hotline at 864-LIVE. Last year during "CPR Awareness Day '89" five hundred (500) persons received CPR training and were certified in this life saving technique.

Morales has held several offices in the Greenbelt Lions Club and was nominated by his peers to serve as its next King Lion for 1990-91. He was Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen in 1984.

Volunteer Fire Dept. Starts Annual Fund Drive

by Karen Myers

The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc. is gearing up for its annual fundraising drive scheduled to begin in mid-April.

According to Henry Wynkoop, president of the Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, they will begin a campaign of mail solicitation and door hangers in old Greenbelt. They will also receive a proclamation from Mayor Gil Weidenfeld.

Funds in excess of $300,000 are needed immediately, Wynkoop said, for new equipment and to repair existing vehicles. The department has two fire trucks, one ambulance, one utility truck and one chief's car. One fire truck is currently being repaired. The squad would like to have an additional ambulance but needs for other equipment must take priority.

Expenses for the all-volunteer department come from cash donations from citizens and from functions catered by the Ladies Auxiliary, such as dinner dances, bowling banquets and wedding receptions.

At the end of January of this year, the fire department stopped sponsoring Las Vegas Night because of investigations of similar fundraising efforts throughout Prince Georges County. No plans are being made now to begin it again. According to Wynkoop, they did not want to bring any controversy into their department.

The fire department has requested that council approve one cent of the city's property tax to be allocated to the fire department. That request is currently being discussed by council and no decision has been made.

In the meantime, the department will continue to rely on the generosity of Greenbelt citizens to provide the funds needed to continue their service to the community.

Greenbelt's Business

Greenhorne & O'Mara Turns Forty

This year, Greenhorne & O'Mara, Inc. (G&O) is celebrating its 40th anniversary. The celebration is being led by Chairman/CEO and co-founder A. James O'Mara, P.E., and new corporate President William A. Caruthers, Jr., P.E.

G&O provides design and consulting services on a variety of projects ranging from boundary surveys to transportation planning and engineering for the Capital Centre sports arena to Montgomery Village (the largest planned community in Maryland with 38,000 residents) to photogrammetric mapping of Ethiopia for famine control planning.

G&O opened its doors in Hyattsville in 1950. It was founded by Marcus F. H. Greenhorne and O'Mara. By July of that year the firm had grown to seven employees.

Initially, G&O provided engineering for Prince Georges County, but quickly moved into planning, land development and surveying. In the mid-50s, they began doing water and sewer design for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. In the 1960s structural engineering was added.

On December 31, 1965 Greenhorne retired, the partnership was dissolved, and O'Mara formed a corporation known today as Greenhorne & O'Mara, Inc. The firm employed about 90 people at that time.

By 1971 architecture, photogrammetry, and water resources engineering were added. In recent years the company has expanded into the fields of earth science, geographic information systems (GIS), environmental engineering, construction services and computer aided design and drafting (CADD). The firm now employs about 1,200 people.

Prudential Announces Top Award Winners

The Prudential Preferred Properties (formerly Merrill Lynch Realty) announced its 1990 Awards for top company producers at its Annual Awards Program on February 23. For the Greenbelt office, Giselle Gleason was number one in Sales, while Ella Murphy pulled down the top honors for Listings. Awards were based on volume and production of transactions settled and sold during 1989.

Arborist Joins G&O

James Cook has joined Greenhorne & O'Mara, Inc. as Urban Forester/Arborist in the firm's Planning and Landscape Architecture Division. Cook will assist G&O's planners, engineers and other land development professionals with tree conservation efforts.

Cook has 16 years of experience working with a broad spectrum of corporate clients, government agencies and public and private organizations to reduce development impact on trees, diagnose problems and recommend treatment and maintenance programs. He has also provided advice on tree ordinances and inventories, and assisted with site planning for soil, water and wildlife conservation. He has co-authored tree preservation ordinances in Savannah and Chatham counties, Ga., and initiated inclusion of tree conservation measures as a routine part of Georgia Department of Transportation contracts.

Officer Joins Rotary

The Greenbelt Rotary Club announced that Lt. John L. Riley, Jr. was inducted into membership recently at the Club's weekly breakfast meeting held every Thursday morning at the Greenbelt Marriott.

Lt. Riley is a native Washingtonian and has been a police officer for 20 years. He spent four years with the District of Columbia Metropolitan Police Department before joining the Prince Georges County Police Department in 1974. He is currently the Sector Commander at the Beltsville Station and has spent the last three years specializing in Narcotics Enforcement, and is also serving as president of the Black Police Association of Prince Georges County.

Lt. Riley developed an effective law enforcement program for open air drug markets. His program has been accredited by the Maryland Police Training Commission for use in Maryland and Virginia. The program was also accepted by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

The Rotary Club of Greenbelt was formed in March, 1988 and is composed of leading professional and management people living or working in or about the Greenbelt area.

Greenbelter Opens Temporaries Office

Laura Kamosa (formerly Karlander), a citizen of the Greenbelt community for 27 years, has joined the staff of Computer Temporaries, Inc., as the Branch Manager opening their office in the East Point Metro Business Center in Lanham.

Kamosa will be working to bring new employment opportunities to Prince Georges County. Computer Temporaries, Inc., offers a whole range of temporary help from clerk/typist to senior word processor. The company is located at 4451 Parliament Place, Suite C, Lanham, 731-4663.

Rotary Club Elects Marjorie E. Perdue

The Rotary Club of Greenbelt has announced that Marjorie E. Perdue will serve as president-elect of the Club for the 1990-1991 year. Perdue is the Director of Administration and Personnel for Insituform East, Inc., a Landover-based firm that repairs underground pipes. She joined the Rotary Club of Greenbelt several months after its charter in March, 1988. An active member, she served as chairman of the Public Relations Committee this past year.

Robert H. Halleck will serve as president of the Rotary Club of Greenbelt during 1990-91. Halleck is the president of Maryland Federal Savings and Loan in Hyattsville, and was one of the Club's charter members.

Miss Greenbelt Pageant Volunteers Are Sought

Work has begun on the Miss Greenbelt Pageant, one of the major features of Greenbelt's Labor Day Festival. Events are now being set for the Pageant, which has a summer's full of activities for planners and pageant participants alike.

This year's theme is "Country and Western," and Pageant Chair Cherri Gainor and the pageant committee are planning activities and events to celebrate that theme. For the 1989 pageant's nautical theme, Miss Greenbelt hopefuls toured the Naval Academy, were escorted by midshipmen, and graced a motorboat in the Labor Day Parade. This year there will be many special activities which will feature the country and western theme including performances during the Labor Day Festival, a float in the parade, and parties and programs throughout the summer.

Many people are needed to organize the pageant. Anyone interested in working on the pageant committee should contact Cherri Gainor at 441-8589. Although Cherri has directed the pageant for several years, she is always looking for new ideas and suggestions for improving it.

It is also not too early to hear from Greenbelt girls who would like to be in the pageant. If interested, contact Cherri for more information and to sign up early to be sure not to miss any of the activities.

NEARBY AREA TO BE SPRAYED FOR MOTHS

Goddard Space Flight Center, in conjunction with a multi-agency group including the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, the National Park Service, the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, will be spraying a pesticide to curb gypsy moth infestation soon, according to a Goddard news release.

The sprayings will cover the 8,000 acres from the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center on Rt. 197 to Greenbelt Park. The National Park Service will also spray along the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. The first of the two-phase sprayings will be as early as May 1, and the second no later than May 20.

Helicopters will spread the pesticide, containing the bacteria Bacillus Thuringiensis to prevent tree defoliation by gypsy moth caterpillars. BT is not harmful to humans, pets, or plants, according to the National Park Service.

Used Items Needed

Spring is in the air and Spring cleaning should be at the top of any "Things To Do List". Why not include the Prevention of Blindness Society on that list? Donate those clothes that are seldom worn, the furniture that just gathers dust and that thing-a-ma-jig of forgotten utility to the Prevention of Blindness Society. Pick-up of large donations of furniture, books, knick-knacks and small appliances is provided.

For drop-off items there are thrift shops in Maryland and Virginia, as well as an antique store in Kensington, Md. These stores need donations to help support the society's many free eye health care programs. Call 234-1010 to arrange pick-up of large donations. All donations are tax-deductible.

CARELINE Seeks Callers

Because of the increase in dual-working and single-parent families, more and more children are home alone after school. For six years, the Mental Health Association of Prince Georges County (MHAPGC) has offered the CARELINE for families in this difficult situation. Every child on the CARELINE is called each weekday at a specified time by trained volunteers from the Association's Largo office. The MHAPGC is looking for people in the community who can volunteer their time to this program.

The Mental Health Association is currently recruiting volunteers who can work from 2:45-3:30 p.m. one day each week (Monday-Friday) at the Association's Largo office. Anyone who is interested in these children and who can give a few hours of their time on the CARELINE should call 499-2107.

Parents interested in registering their children to receive CARELINE services should also call 499-2107.

Company Provides Child Safety Seats

Cellular One has announced that child safety seats will be given to all employees expecting a baby. The program is supported by the Maryland Child Passenger Safety Association and Project Kids in Safety Seats (KISS). Car seats that are not needed by expectant families will be donated to Project KISS.

Cellular One, located on Walker Drive in Greenbelt's Golden Triangle, employs 200 persons. A Southwestern Bell Company, it was the first non-wireline cellular company in the United States and the initial provider of cellular service in the Washington/Baltimore area.

Jones and Masse Are Poster Contest Winners

The second annual McCarl Family Dental Office Poster Contest was held in an effort to raise our children's awareness of their dental health. Scheduled to coincide with National Children's Dental Health Month, the contest had children show various things on their posters to improve their dental health. These included: a healthy diet, cleaning their teeth well and regular check-ups.

The number of entries was outstanding, with some very creative efforts. Cami Baer coordinated the contest, and local artists Jo Scheibel and Barbara Simon judged the posters. County Councilman Richard Castaldi awarded the prizes to the winners in front of a packed crowd at the office.

A fifty dollar savings bond and a twenty five dollar gift certificate were awarded to the two grand prize winners: Corita Jones, grade 6, of Glen Arden Woods Elementary, and Shannon Masse, grade 1, of St. Mathias Elementary. All the children present received prizes for participation.

Refreshments, creative posters and an upbeat group of people made the event a tremendous success.

Greenbelt Grab Bag

by Punchin' Judy

"Broccoli, while not exoccoli, Comes within an innich Of being Spinach."

Ogden Nash wrote the above poem many years ago. He couldn't have imagined that this country's chief executive in 1990 would say "no to broccoli", as opposed to what Popeye tried to do in favor of spinach.

Personally, I rather like broccoli. What I really can't abide is rutabagas. Can you think of a rhyme for rutabagas? Let's see: "In Atlantic City or Old Las Vegas, you can bet I won't eat rutabagas". Ok, Ok, I know I'm no Ogden Nash, but then, of course, he was no Punchin' Judy.

Another interesting vegetable is zucchini. I don't buy anything that I can't even spell. I don't buy the stuff, but actually I quite like it, and in the summer everybody who plants it seems to have a surplus, so guess who says "yes" to you-know-what. Not only does it provide a tasty dish, but I get a warm glow of satisfaction at performing the public function of alleviating an overage.

I agree with the President that no one should be forced to eat anything that doesn't appeal. I remember my parents saying to me when I was a child, "If you don't finish your vegetables you will have to eat your dessert." (I was always a rather strange kid. I didn't like desserts in those days, a condition that no longer afflicts me.) When my children were small, they were told they needn't eat foods they didn't like as long as they refused politely. The results were unforeseen - they ate anything that didn't bite them first.

Whatever your political affiliation, remember it's a free country. If you like broccoli, go for it. If you don't you may refuse, but do it politely. Just say "no, thank you."

People are invited to explore Mexico, taste a few samples, and enjoy a Mexican experience. For more information, call 474-6878.

9 & Under Soccer Team

by a Proud Parent

The spring soccer season began with much anticipation, from the children, parents, and their coaches. The Boys & Girls Club has taken the players from all those registered in this age group and made two teams. One team plays in the intramural league and the other plays in the county league.

The first game of the season was Sunday, March 11. This also turned out to be our Windsor Green home opener, against a tough opponent, South Bowie. There was a good crowd on hand to lend support for coach Julie Greer and all the children playing soccer. There are some new faces on the team this year and a new assistant coach, Lisa Meetre. The new players are, Keith Loh, Evan White, Ferney Dennis and Darren Chang. The playing conditions for the first game were less than ideal with the playing field on the sloppy side. However, the children enjoyed the occasional slip and slide. The first half of the game was a tough defensive battle, with both teams unable to get any easy scoring opportunities. When the second half began the Greenbelt team began to take charge, playing with great team spirit and effort. John Greer, Jason Brooks, William Fenwick, and Kenny Sanchez took an inbound pass from Mike Esposito down the right side of the field. While the defenders all charged the ball handler Jason, he centered the ball to John who worked the ball to the opposite side to William. Controlling the ball down the left side down near the goal, he passed the ball to the center in front of the goal to Kenny who fired a shot on goal. The goalie was able to block the shot only to send the ball straight up and back toward Kenny who headed the ball back past the goalie for our first score. Team work pays off once again, a job well done! Other scoring opportunities came later from our team's great defense. Goalie Patrick Moore, who recorded our first shutout of the year, to our fullbacks, Kevin Skolnik, Darren Chang, and Terry Burka. Each time South Bowie would come downfield in an attempt to score our fullbacks would meet the challenge and pass the ball up to our halfbacks, Sima Fadl, Joey Bailey, and Mike Esposito. In turn they always found a way to get the ball outside to our wings, Keith Loh and Jason Brooks, who twice were able to fly down the left side of the field, past the South Bowie fullbacks and score.

Newcomer to our team, Ferney Dennis, was also able to put to good use the nice passes from Jason Brooks and Kenny Sanchez to score a goal. Our team played as a team, showing great sportsmanship, effort and teamwork. Great job team!! SCORE:

Greenbelt 4-0.

Our second game was away at Kettering against our always tough opponents, the Kettering Boys and Girls Club. Our team played very hard throughout the game. The teams played about even for the first ten minutes or so when lightning struck. Our defense made a couple of errors which placed a heavy burden on our goalie Patrick. He was equal to the task for many of the Kettering shots, but the Kettering team continued to fire shot after shot at our goal scoring on some of those attempts.

In the second half of play our team began to catch a little fire, and began to play even harder than they did in the first half. With crisp passes and terrific teamwork from Evan, Mike, and Keith, we were able to get the ball to our Striker, Kenny, who was able to score our only goal. We learned some lessons from this game, and we had some terrific play from our players. Kettering was just the better team this day. SCORE: Kettering 7-1.

On March 25 we faced Bowie on our home field. Bowie proved to definitely be a "select" team. Our team kept pace with the visitors throughout much of the first half, placing some shots on goal that their goalie was able to deflect. Our team work improved as the game progressed, but our opponent proved to be far too experienced for us to handle. We gave a terrific effort, while trying to get a handle on this tiger we were playing. Our team received superior support from the parents and coaches during this real tough game. Keep up the hard work and the good teamwork! SCORE: Bowie 6-0.

Arts Committee Drawing Plans for Arts Programs

by Julie Andrews

Using results of a questionnaire and a study of arts education in the city, the Greenbelt Arts Advisory Committee is helping to further arts programming in the community.

At its March 21 meeting, the committee reviewed results from a questionnaire distributed throughout Greenbelt the past six months. More than 200 surveys were handed out to assess the community's preferences for various arts activities. Because it is interested in helping to create an arts department in the proposed community center at the Center School building, the committee wanted to find out what classes and workshops in the visual, performing and literary arts different age groups would enjoy.

The range of possibilities includes painting and photography classes, dance and theater workshops, writing courses and a desktop publishing facility.

The committee will view the choices of the community along with those arts programs currently offered by the Greenbelt Recreation Department.

According to the committee's education representative, Nancy DePlatchett, other sources of art education are seniors classes available through the Prince Georges Community College and drama classes offered by the Greenbelt Arts Center. Both programs are run in cooperation with the recreation department.

The committee's recreation department representative, Cathy Corona-Salgado, who compiled the results of the arts questionnaire, will compare Greenbelters' desires in the way of arts programming with what already exists.

Committee chairwoman Barbara Simon said an important finding of the questionnaire is

GHI NOTES

A reception honoring all members of GHI committees is planned for Friday, April 20. See ad elsewhere in this issue of the News Review for details.

Richard Pilski, chairman of the American Legion's Community Betterment Committee, leads the applause as Post Commander Noel Tucker presents a check to Marie Tousignant, president of Greenbelt Arts Center.

Corona-Salgado noted that 2,000 fliers advertising a new summer arts day camp, offered by the Greenbelt Recreation Department, will be distributed throughout the community. The Kreative Kids Camp will accept children ages 6 to 14 and will be conducted in four sessions starting July 9.

The camp will provide instructional programs for arts and crafts, literary arts, visual and performing arts, and other activities.

As part of its role as an advisory group, the committee recommended to the city council that the budget requests for the Greenbelt Concert Band and the Greenbelt Arts Center be honored.

A bill addressing the problem of excessive traffic speed in school zones, which was co-sponsored by State Senator Leo E. Green of the 23rd legislative district, was passed by the Maryland Senate. According to a letter from Senator Green, his primary concern was traffic operations and safety along Greenbelt Rd. at Hanover Parkway near Eleanor Roosevelt High School, where a number of accidents have occurred.

Besides designating specific areas as school zones, the bill would also have required the State Highway Administration (SHA) to adopt regulations establishing a uniform system for designating school speed zones and would have established a system of traffic control devices for moving traffic and pedestrians through these zones.

Because the bill's counterpart died, however, in the House of Delegates, being reported unfavorably out of committee, no change will occur in State policies concerning the control of traffic near schools.

In reference to the Greenbelt intersection in question, City Manager James K. Giese met in December with Creston J. Mills, Jr., District Engineer of the SHA, concerning the perceived danger from speeding traffic. (One driver turning on to Greenbelt Road had been killed as a result of the excessive speed of an oncoming car traveling up the hill.)

Following the meeting with Giese, the SHA conducted a speed study, whose conclusions were reported in a letter to the city on March 14. In this letter Mills reports that 85% of the traffic heading east on Greenbelt Road travels at or below 49 miles per hour in the 45 mph zone. In the other direction (that is, downhill) 85% of drivers travel at 52 mph.

The SHA's conclusion is that "Drivers travel at a speed which they feel comfortable" and that "arbitrarily lowering the speed limit does not lower the travel speeds, but breeds disrespect for speed limit signing in other areas."

Mills, however, has requested that the county police department conduct selective enforcement of the 45-mph speed limit in that area. The letter concludes that "A review of the accident histories of the intersections and sections of MD 193 (Greenbelt Road) between Hanover Parkway and Cipriano Road shows no unusual patterns which indicate any additional action is required by the State Highway Administration."

for senior citizens which is well attended. During the luncheon a pianist played songs from "Memory Lane" as Pilski and others led the group in singing. After receiving the check, Tousignant joined Pilski and the assembly in a spirited rendition of "Side by Side." Also attending the luncheon was Fann Kash, treasurer of the Arts Center.

Tousignant, in her remarks, assured the Post that with such community support, the Arts Center survives and flourishes. Commenting on the superior attendance at Al Herling's birthday concert, she also announced that the next concert would feature the "Prevailing Winds", a wind quintet, on March 31 at Mishkar Torah, and that the final play of the season will be the Washington premiere of York 8 Lancaster 6, which will open April 20 at Capitol College for a three week run.

Senior men and women are invited to Braden field on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings to play softball for fun, exercise and sportsmanship. Anybody who already has or wants to develop a grip on slow pitch softball is encouraged to accept the motto "You don't stop playing because you grow old; you grow old because you stop playing."

All interested players are welcome to participate in our senior co-ed slow pitch softball leagues representing Greenbelt in Montgomery County and the Maryland-Virginia Beltway area. Men and women players have been invited to represent Greenbelt in the senior world series softball tournament, in Maryland state championships and in the Maryland Senior Olympics. Men and women players or non-players are needed to make line-ups, coach infield and outfield, make decisions, schedule games, do correspondence, handle fees, help in registration, be in charge of travel accommodations, be base coaches and be score keepers.

Cultural Exchange

Approximately 60 French teenagers and 15 Spanish teenagers are planning to experience life in Maryland and Washington, D.C. for the month of July. This program provides an opportunity for an American family to share their life and culture with a foreign student and to experience European culture and language through their student. American families are asked to provide room and board with a typical American experience. The students' parents provide transportation and pocket money.

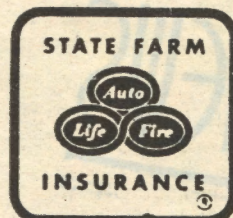

At the same time, students from this area will be spending four weeks living with a European family to experience their language and culture first hand. There are still openings in these programs for students who have successfully completed two years of the language of the host family.

Families interested in hosting a European student or sending a teenager to Europe should contact Ruth L. Jamison, 1236 W. Pulaski Hwy., Elkton, Md. 21921, 301-398-8486.

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information
Released by the Greenbelt
Police Department

On Apr. 2 two black men in a Ford station wagon held up a van on the ramp connecting northbound Kenilworth Ave. to the outer loop of the Beltway. The hold-up was effected by ramming the van a few times in the back and then running it off the road. The men in the station wagon told the driver of the van to get out of it, shot him in the thigh through the driver's door window, and then drove off in the van. The driver had been enroute to the bank to make a deposit for his employer, so money was stolen as well as the van. The van is a dark blue 1988 Ford econoline 350 diesel van, MD tags 899479. The man who did the shooting is described as having graying hair, of medium-to-thin build, wearing a mask on his face and armed with a chrome-plated revolver. No details were noticed about the second suspect. The wounded man was transported to Prince Georges Hospital in fair condition.

On Mar. 27, Officer Marty Parker arrested a 29-year-old non-resident for trespassing in an apartment in the 6000 block of Springhill Dr. The man appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was released pending trial.

When a Riverdale resident entered her vehicle in the 7500 block of Greenway Center Dr. on Mar. 30, she was confronted by a man hiding in the vehicle who held a knife to her throat and forced her to drive to Bowie. Once in Bowie, the man had her stop the vehicle and get out. As he was getting out of the vehicle, the abductee kicked him in the groin, jumped back into her vehicle and fled. The man is described as black, 6'0", 200 lbs., black hair in a flat-top style, of indeterminate age, and wearing acid-washed jeans, a red t-shirt and a blue waist-cut jacket.

On Mar. 31 Officer Richard Sullivan stopped a vehicle for a traffic violation in the 6000 block of Greenbelt Rd. and found a 19-year-old resident male with brass knuckles. He arrested the youth for possession of a concealed weapon. The young man appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was released pending trial.

On Apr. 1 a person got out of a brown truck (possibly a Toyota), smashed two windows of the Equitable Bank in Beltway Plaza with some sort of tool, and then fled.

A citizen reported blood in a trash dumpster in the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr. on April 1. Officer Dowling investigated and found the mutilated remains of a dog. Investigation is continuing.

On Apr. 1 a resident in the 6200 block of Springhill Ct. reported that someone had scratched "KKK" on his front door.

On Apr. 1 a resident in the 5800 block of Cherrywood Ln. reported that someone had shot at his patio with a BB gun.

On Apr. 2 a man followed his ex-girlfriend to the parking lot of Reddy's Exxon, 7500 block of Greenbelt Rd., pulled her into his vehicle, and left. He later returned the kidnapped woman; investigation is continuing.

Alcohol and Drugs

After stopping a vehicle for a traffic violation in the 6000 block of Greenbelt Rd. on Mar. 30, Pfc. Carl Schinner and Officer Richard Sullivan smelled ether coming from the vehicle. It turned out that the driver had an extract bottle of phenylcyclidine and that the passenger had a baggie containing green vegetable matter and a cigarette laced with phenylcyclidine. Both the driver and the passenger, nonresident males aged 23 and 22, were arrested and charged with possession with the intent to distribute phenylcyclidine, possession of phenylcyclidine, and possession of drug paraphernalia. Both appeared before a District Court Commissioner; the driver was held on $10,000 bond and the passenger was held on no bond pending trial.

While investigating a suspicious vehicle in the parking lot of Beltway Plaza on Mar. 30, Cpl. Danny Allwang found that the driver had been consuming an alcoholic beverage and that there was some cocaine and marijuana in the vehicle. The 30-year-old nonresident male driver was then arrested and charged with possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana. He appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $5,000 bond pending trial.

On Mar. 31 Cpl. James Parker arrested a 44-year-old resident male in the 500 block of Crescent Rd. for consuming an alcoholic beverage in a public place. The man was released on a citation pending trial.

During a traffic stop in the 9100 block of Springhill Ln. on Apr. 4, Pfc. Thomas Moreland observed several small baggies used to contain controlled dangerous substances lying on the floorboard of the car. He also found several items of controlled dangerous substance paraphernalia in the car. Both occupants, a 36-year-old nonresident female and a 39-year-old nonresident male, were arrested for possession of controlled dangerous substance paraphernalia. The woman was incarcerated on a $750 bond pending trial, and the man was released on his own personal recognition pending trial.

Theft

On Mar. 28 money and a beeper were stolen from a suite in the 6400 block of Golden Triangle. The theft is believed to have occurred when some people threatening management over pay were left alone in the office while staff fled to call for police assistance.

A breaking and entering was unsuccessfully attempted in the 9100 block of Springhill Ln. on Apr. 1. The resident of the apartment told the police that she had found a knife stuck into the window frame of a kitchen window.

On Apr. 2 employees of Hit or Miss in the Greenway Shopping Center reported that shoplifters had left the store with merchandise. The police chased the shoplifters all the way to the D.C. line on the Baltimore-Washington Pkwy. It was later learned that the suspects' vehicle was involved in an accident in Washington, and that the suspects fled.

On Mar. 24 a Bowie resident reported that she had forgotten her purse at the AMC 6 Theaters in Beltway Plaza and that when she went back to get it, it was gone.

On Mar. 26, a breaking and entering was reported in the 100 block of Westway. Apparently the thief opened a ceiling hatch in the hallway, crawled through the ceiling structure to the acluding several stone and water features. He said the 33 townhouses will each have a garage and a base price of approximately $200,000. The condominiums will have a base price of approximately $140,000.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld was concerned about safety with the ponds, especially for children. Reed said that there is no way to totally assure safety, but that the ponds had been designed to be as safe as possible. The base of the pond gradually tapers down, rather than dropping sharply, to encourage youngsters to go back to shore. Areas around the water features will receive extra landscaping to discourage people from entering the water.

The developers have also agreed to increase landscaping along the boundary with Hunting Ridge.

partment and broke through the apartment's ceiling. A VCR, a camera, and some money were stolen.

On Mar. 27 a resident in the 9100 block of Edmonston Terr. reported a breaking and entering; a gold ring was stolen. There were no signs of forced entry.

Vehicles

On Mar. 28 a resident in the 7800 block of Mandan Rd. reported the theft of his 1985 Pontiac Trans Am, Tennessee tags LKZ 828.

On Apr. 3 a 1980 Chevrolet Pickup C-10 truck was stolen from Forest Way. It was later recovered by the Prince Georges County Police.

After stopping to lend assistance to a disabled vehicle in the intersection of Cherrywood Ln. and Breezewood Dr. on Apr. 4, Officer Richard Sullivan learned via police radio that the vehicle had been reported stolen. On Mar. 27 the U.S. Park Police recovered a 1989 Jeep Cherokee that had been stolen from the Holiday Inn parking lot on Mar. 21. No arrests were made.

Vandalism to, thefts from, and attempted thefts of autos were reported in the following areas: the 7100 block of Ora Glen Ct., the 7200 block of Hanover Dr., the 6200 block of Springhill Ct., the 6200 block of Breezewood Dr., the 7900 block of Mandan Rd., the 5800 block of Cherrywood Ln. and the 7300 block of Morrison Dr.

Beltway Plaza

The developers of Beltway Plaza are still seeking to obtain the school bus property adjacent to the shopping center. They propose to construct a small strip commercial center on the property and to construct a multi-level parking garage between the new center and Beltway Plaza. The garage, according to the developers, would structurally stabilize the hill. The plaza developers are under orders from the state to resolve the longstanding erosion problems on the slope.

Council unanimously agreed to advise the developers that the proposed plan is unacceptable.

Cable TV

Council directed staff to contact Multivision Cable about service problems and citizen complaints that the company has been unresponsive. Gerald Madison said that the Lakeside North area has been experiencing severe reception problems for over three weeks. He said that he and others have attempted repeatedly to get the company to respond to their complaints, only to be told that there are no problems in Greenbelt and that no one has called.

New School

Giese said that he met with school officials on plans for the new elementary school. He said that the new plans call for an eight-foot retaining wall near the ballfield to reduce the amount of tree loss. School officials now estimate completion by June 1992, rather than their previous target of June 1991. The city has not yet signed an agreement transferring to North End property to the school board.

Other Actions

Tim Baker, Director of Intergovernmental Relations in the Maryland Secretary of State's office, spoke briefly. He praised council for taking part in state affairs, particularly noting the efforts of Weidenfeld and White in supporting additional police aid for municipalities. The governor recently added $1 million for such assistance in the supplemental budget.

Mayor pro tem Thomas X.

Homemaker Club to Meet

The Greenbelt Homemakers Club will meet on Wednesday, April 18, at the home of Frances Grosskurth. A program on recycling will be presented by Nancy Falk. Homemaker meetings are open to all. For info call Sylvia Kyle, 474-2705.

White appealed that some of the funds provided to the state by the federal government for drug enforcement might trickle down to the localities. Baker said that much of the aid will be targeted to areas that have put together a comprehensive approach to the drug program. He promised to have the appropriate person in the governor's office contact the city on the requirements and procedures for applying for the aid.

Councilman Joe Isaacs sought support for proposed legislation to provide funding for the renovation of Center School and a tightening of school zone speed limits. Weidenfeld noted, however, that the governor's budget and the tax committee had recommended against school rehabilitation assistance, saying that there are not sufficient funds for the project and that other sources of assistance are available. The mayor said that the city has pursued other sources of aid without success. He noted that citizens have already authorized $3 million for the project, but that the historic nature of the property increases the rehabilitation costs, currently estimated to be over $4 million.

In response to a comment from Doug Love, Baker offered to sit in on the upcoming meeting between council and State Highway Administration officials.

Council granted a contract to Aero Tech, Inc. to spray portions of the city with Bt to combat gypsy moths. The spray will supplement the state spraying, as studies have shown that Bt is most effective when applied twice.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again !!

Here at Greenbelt Auto and Truck we see a lot of different types of repairs, from flat tires to major engine repairs. Extended warranty coverages are very common because they can give vehicle owners "insurance" in the event of a costly repair. However, as with all insurance policies, one must be certain about the "language" in the policy. Sometimes vehicle owners are surprised at what is defined as a "wearable item". For instance, a brake component or a component drive belt are examples of wearable items regardless of the vehicle type. Another potential problem area is "point of origin". If for example, a cylinder head gasket goes bad and the engine overheats and the cylinder head casing becomes damaged, the warranty only covers the point of origin - what was the cause of the overheating - not the result. A scenario of this type can get real messy for the repair facility as well as the owner of the vehicle. One way to minimize the chance of this problem occurring is to keep ACCURATE maintenance records of ALL maintenance evaluations, even the small service requirements. This is important because the warranty company will ask for documentation of your maintenance schedule and without them you may find yourself up the proverbial creek. If you do have the proper records and they are UP TO DATE your problem may well turn out to be a major inconvenience rather than a major headache and expense.

TILL NEXT TIME ! ! ! !

THINK PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE ! ! ! !
